Security sector

at the Progressive Wage Model wage and training requirements for security

What is it

The Progressive Wage Model (PWM) for security officers was developed by the Security Tripartite Cluster (STC). It features:

- Training requirements to ensure that workers have the skills they need to carry out their jobs.
- Progressive wages set at each level. This ensures that workers are paid wages that correspond to their skills and productivity.

The PWM is a licensing condition for security agencies under the Police Regulatory Department (PRD).

Who it covers

The PWM requirements are mandatory. They cover all Singapore citizens and permanent residents who are employed as security officers in licensed security agencies, or by in-house employers that hire foreign workers.

Employers are encouraged to adopt the PWM's principles for their foreign security officers by upgrading their skills and implementing productivity-based wage progression pathways.

From 1 January 2024, the basic wages of full-time security officers will be above $2,600. Part 4 of the Employment Act will no longer apply to full-time security officers, and employers are no longer required to pay security officers for extra hours worked beyond the 44-hour regular work week.

Under PRD's licensing conditions, security officers should not work more than 72 extra hours per month. Security officers do not have to work mandatory extra hours to earn the basic wage requirement. Security officers and their employers should discuss and agree on the terms of employment in writing.

The wage schedule is subject to review in 2025.

Training requirements

Security agencies and in-house employers must ensure that their Singapore citizen and permanent resident security officers meet the PWM training requirements.

- Chief security officer: 3 modules and at least 24 months as a Senior security supervisor
- Senior security supervisor: 4 modules and at least 18 months as a Security supervisor
- Security supervisor: 3 modules and at least 12 months as a Senior security officer
- Senior security officer: 2 modules and at least 6 months as a Security officer
- Security officer: 4 modules

Both the security agency and security officers will benefit from the increased productivity and ability to provide higher security standards to service buyers through proper training.

Raising annual leave entitlement for outsourced PWM workers

From 2029 onwards, the minimum annual leave entitlement for outsourced PWM workers will be increased from 7 days to 10 days. The enhancement will be implemented in phases and will support outsourced workers across the cleaning, security, landscape, lift and escalator, and waste management sectors. The implementation timeline will be discussed by the respective sectoral Tripartite Clusters, allowing employers and service buyers time to plan for the changes and manage operational and cost impact.
